

Edgediff High School is ambitious for the educational achievement of all its learners, whatever their interests and talents. In particular, we aim to:

- enable learners to develop the skills and the confidence to operate independently;
- continuously reappraise approaches to teaching and learning, encouraging innovation and creativity;
- exploit the considerable potential of developing technologies to motivate learners and support learning;
- share resources and work collaboratively with partner schools to assist with their own improvement efforts;
- develop skills in learners that are of value to employers and work creatively with employers themselves to support their training needs; and
- support the needs of the wider community and contribute to lifelong learning through the provision of community learning activities.
- Consistent with our status as a Technology College, we give specific emphasis to the richness of provision in Design and Technology, Science and Mathematics and aspire to continuously improving 'leading edge' practice in these curriculum areas.
- We are a community of learners who are Learning Together.
